The Dickinson Family.

About 700 A. D. Rolf or Rollo, a Scandinavian Earl (Viking) in a marauding expedition, landed in France. He met and defeated the army of the French king. By the resulting treaty he was given a dukedom and the king's daughter in marriage. He was the first Duke of Normandy.

Walter de Caen, a great grandson of Rolf, was a distant cousin of William, the reigning duke in 1066. He accompanied the duke on the expedition to England which resulted in William (the Conqueror) becoming king of that country, after defeating King Harold at the battle of Hastings.

He settled in Yorkshire and was the grandfather of Johnne Dykonson of Kingston, Yorkshire, who married Margaret Lambert in 1220. The name de Caen derived from estates in Normandy, and the "son" was probably from the Scandinavian custom of adding it to the family name. The evolution was de Caen, de Caenson, de Kenson, Dykenson, Dikenson, Dicconson, Dickenson, Dickinson.

The line of descent was:

- I. Rolf or Rollo.
- II. ?
- III. ?
- IV. Walter de Caen.
- V. Johnne Dykenson.
- VI. William.
- VII. Hugh.
- VIII. William.
- IX. Hugh.
- X. Anthony.
- XI. Richard Dickinson.
- XII. Thomas.
- XIII. Hugh.
- XIV. William.
- XV. John.

- XVI. William. Moved to Bradley Hall in Staffordshire.
- XVII. Richard.
- XVIII. Thomas.
- XIX. William. Moved to Cambridge county.

XX. Nathaniel. Married Ann Gull, a widow, in 1630, in Suffolk. Emigrated to America in 1630 with his wife and four children: John, Joseph, Thomas and Hannah. The following were born in America: Samuel, Obediah, Nathaniel, Nehemiah, Hezekiah, Azariah, and Frances.

Another line of descent is: Walter de Mallet de Greville, his son William, who also accompanied William from Normandy to England, Gilbert, Robert, Henry, William, William, (who was at Runnymede when King John signed Magna Carta, and was one of the twenty-five barons assigned to see that its provisions were carried out), his son-in-law, Hugh de Vivonia, his son William, Reginald Fitz Piers (son-in-law), Robert Dyconson (son-in-law) Robert, William, Richard, Robert, Roger, Robert, Raufe or Ralph, Raufe, William, Richard Dickenson, Edward Dickinson, and John, father of Nathaniel, who emigrated to America.

In the de Caen line there are sixteen generations from the adventurer to England, to Nathaniel, the adventurer to America. There are twenty-three in the other. This is not impossible for a period of early marriages and large families, but should both should converge in one father of Nathaniel. They do not.

Nathaniel was probably born at Claypool in Lincolnshire, 1600, but as far as any facts regarding him in England are concerned, the records are absolutely silent until August, 1629, when he joined the Cambridge Company, and about the same time married the Widow Gull. They sailed from England in March, 1630, in a fleet of four vessels, the Ambrose, Jewel, Talbot and Annabella, in company with John Winthrop, Thomas Dudley and Sir Richrrd Saltonstall, arriving in June at Boston. It has been stated that he first settled in Watertown but his name does not appear on any record belonging to that town. The National Cyclopedia of American Biography states (p. 281, under John Dickinson) that he and Philemon, a brother, settled in Salem in 1630. Nathaniel moved to Weathersford, Conn., was there in 1636 and was town clerk until 1639. He was the representative to the General Court for several sessions. In 1659 he was of the party that went with Rev. John Russell to Hadley, Mass., and became at once a man of note. He was Assessor, Supervisor, Overseer, School Trustee, Elder of the church. He was chairman of the committee that built the meeting house and the school house. He belonged to the troop of horse, and died, full of years and honors, June 16, 1676. No stone marks his grave.
